It was nice to have a visit with Robert "Hammer" Johnson the other day. Hammer, you know, is a candidate for county court clerk, a veteran, and says that this business of politics is a pretty interesting though strenuous job. Father of one child, and one of a large family, he has resigned his job with the U. S. Department of Engineers to seek the post of county court clerk. Mr. Johnson, plans to make a house-to-house canvass of the city in the near future, so be on the look-out for this very amiable fellow.

We call your attention this week to the news from Austin Springs and from Martha Luther's department in the Henry I. Siegel Company. We think them both extra good columns this week and feel sure that you will enjoy them more than ever. As a matter of fact, our readers tell us that our rural correspondents are really the star reporters of this paper.

We call your attention too, to Footnotes, by Alice and Me, appearing in its usual place on the editorial page. Alice forgot to tell of the lady golfer who got in something of a rut at the club the other day. She hit a ball and it hit the tree and it bounced back right in her face, almost. Thinking that a little funny, she did it again, and again it came back. According to the caddy who revealed the story that ball hit that tree and came back four times. " . . . $ & " said the lady golfer. That means, isn't that a funny ball, in pig latin.

Why Eds Skip Town:
"No governor in many years has been able to love on the salary paid him" . . . Virginia paper.
"Unsettled night, snow probable; no much change intemperature." . . . South Dakota paper.

Ham Ethridge, local sound-effects man, electrician, poet, and pow-wow expert from the pooped-out at the ball park, advises us that he is preparing a singing commercial for the park PA system.

Since he is the guy who started this look-under-the-Coca-Cola bottle-for-the-address stuff that we mentioned last week, we might as well add that he was "Stuck" for drinks last weekend by turning up the bottle the longest distance yet recorded away from home: Tiajuana, Mexico.

GIP MCDADDE FILES FOR SHERIFF; TO SEEK OFFICE ON PAST RECORD

G. J. "Gip" McDade, chief of police of Fulton for the past two years and a member of county police forces for the past 15 years is today announcing his candidacy to seek the office of Sheriff of Fulton County subject to the action of the voters in the Democratic primary on August 6. A resident of this section all of his life and having lived in Fulton for the past 25 years, Mr. McDade was a candidate for Fulton County jailer eight years ago. At that time he received the largest number of votes ever cast from this end of the county.

In making his formal announcement Mr. McDade said: "Many of my friends have urged me to run for the office of sheriff of Fulton County, I do so with the belief that my qualifications are such as to make the county the kind of sheriff they deserve. I have had a wide amount of experience in police officer work and believe that my record speaks for itself as to the type of officer I have been. I shall make a thorough campaign and hope to see each voter before election day. Your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated.

DROWNING VICTIMS FOUND NEAR DAM

A Marshall County coroner's jury Monday returned a verdict of "accidental drowning" in the death of five Illinoisans whose fishing boat sank in the Tennessee River below Kentucky Dam last Thursday.

All five bodies surfaced Sunday and were recovered, Marshall Coroner Ray Linn said. The bodies of John Lasak, his son, Dean, Fred Rich, all of West Frankfort, and J. W. Mornin, Herrin, were recovered just below Kentucky Dam. The body of Miles Baker, West Frankfort, was recovered near Haddock Ferry, about five miles downstream. A professional diver had spent nearly two days searching for the bodies.

City Plans Purchase Of Carr Park As Playground

At the next meeting of the City Council to be held in July the Mayor and Board of Councilmen will discuss the purchase of Carr Park as a permanent playground for the children of Fulton. According to Mayor Boaz, Frank Carr, owner of the property has placed a value of $25,000 on the acreage and has held up sale of the property in individual lots pending action of the City Council to purchase the site as a park and playground.

Mr. Carr stated that he had been approached by two members of the City Council in the interest of purchasing the property as a park site. Mayor Boaz said that he would be agreeable to the purchase and knew of at least two other members of the council interested in establishing a playground for the city's children.

Carr Park has been a landmark in the city. As far back as 1890 it was the scene of much activity both in a civic and cultural nature. Band concerts, lectures, celebrations and other events have been staged on the spacious grounds.

In more recent years the property has been used as a city playground in return for a nominal tax assessment to the property owners. Last year the tax equalization board placed a material assessment on the property, thus making it necessary for the Carr interests to plan a real estate subdivision, according to Mr. Carr.

Mr. Carr said that sale of lots in the proposed subdivision would be held up awaiting action of the City Council. Mayor Boaz told the News that the issue may be put to a vote of the people.

Sanders Announces For Re-Election

The News is authorized to announce the candidacy of Aaron Sanders for the office of Jailer of Fulton County, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary, August 6, 1949.

Mr. Sanders has been serving as jailer of Fulton county for the past year and a half, having been elected to fill out the unexpired term of Mrs. Inez Shanklin, who resigned.

Mr. Sanders has made a good record as jailer and believes that his experience in this office will enable him to serve the people of this county better than could a person who is not familiar with the problems of the office.

Mr. Sanders says he believes the record will show that he has kept the cost of feeding prisoners at a minimum while maintaining a better than average standard of diet, and further, that he has kept the building in good sanitary condition.

"Due to the responsibilities of my office, it will be difficult for me to see every voter personally," Mr. Sanders continued, "hence, I take this means of soliciting your vote and influence and earnestly request that you will examine my record and decide to vote for me in the August 6, primary.

"If elected to this office, I pledge myself to serve in the same efficient and economical manner as I have in the past."

Mr. Sanders, who has spent practically all his life in Fulton county, has a wife and four children. Due to an automobile accident in 1937, he is not physically able to do strenuous work but is thoroughly capable of handling the duties of the office of jailer. He has always supported the Democratic party.

Previous announcement in other county papers was made in March.

Jones, Rushton Fined For Union City Theft

W. O. Jones and Kayo Rushton, both 22, who were arrested here a few hours after breaking into two Union City business houses, were each fined $25 and costs yesterday following a hearing at Union City.

Both confessed to breaking into the Pan-Am Grocery and taking around $47 in cash, and to entry in the Ford Garage, where nothing was removed.

Both are from Fulton.

Rural Carrier Awaits Action of Grand Jury

Cecil Weatherspoon, 54, local rural mail carrier charged with theft and embezzlement has been under suspicion by the postoffice department for nearly a year, according to R. O. Sealy, postal inspector for this area. First information that the carrier, who would have been eligible for retirement within a year was falsifying records came after a routine postal inspection and after complaints from rural boxholders along the route.

Weatherspoon waived a hearing before Federal Commissioner C. Warren Eaton in Paducah and was bound over to the Fall Federal Grand Jury, which convenes October 24.

The specific charge placed against him was that of "stealing $5 from a letter and embezzlement of $11 by 'kiting'." The latter is a postoffice term meaning the act of selling money orders and withholding the money until another is sold.

According to Postal Inspector R. O. Sealy, Weatherspoon admitted he owed about $57, which he had taken from money orders.

Fulton News Receives Awards For Newspaper Excellence

Folks at the News office are mighty proud of the three new picture frames that hang on the wall these days, because contained therein are three excellence awards presented to the editors last weekend when they attended the Kentucky Press Association meeting held on Kentucky Lake.

In the state-wide newspaper competition the Fulton News was awarded a certificate for second place in the best quarter-page advertisement submitted. The ad was for the OK Laundry and was headed "Strictly our Responsibility . . . Buttons and Bows . . . Not a Song, but a Service." The ad was appropriately illustrated. Another award was presented in the competition for the most outstanding editorials written during the past year. Out of nearly 150 entries the Fulton News was awarded fourth place for its editorial entitled "What Gives With State Rights." Another fourth place award was received for the general excellence of the News' editorial page.

The entire News staff feels that the awards really were presented to the people of Fulton, who have been a daily inspiration for our efforts. To our readers we dedicate our best efforts to improve the paper so that first place awards will come next year. At to you who deserve the best that your subscription money can buy.

Envoys Extraordinary To England

Mrs. James Isbell and Reed and Jim, Jr., who are now living in England while Colonel Isbell serves with the Third Air Force. (See Story Below)

The Isbells In England

Reed Sees The Princess - Daddy Sees The King

A long time ago when Virginia Fleming Isbell, was a little girl she must have dreamed of knights in armor, and princesses in ivory towers and old English cottages with pretty wisteria. It must have been a dream well planned, because her fascinating and interesting life in England could not have happened by chance. Letters to her mother, Mrs. Jessie Lee Fleming, are in story-book fashion and her latest, with the biggest news of all, is almost too good to be true.

Little Reed Isbell, vivacious daughter of Colonel and Mrs. James Isbell was selected from all of the little American girls in England to present a bouquet of flowers to Princess Margaret Rose in a dedication ceremony held earlier this week.

It must have been prophetic that Reed should be selected to present the flowers to her Royal Highness, so similar are their dynamic personalities. Reed is a little girl who can converse with grown-ups and yet never lose the juvenile touch. Her wide travels with her parents have made her anything but an "Army brat," but rather a tremendously well poised young lady who is a good listener, a good talker and pretty much of an individual thinker for her tender years. The Isbells are living in a land of almost make-believe. Domiciled in an old-world cottage in Denham, Buckinghamshire, more than 300 years old, Mrs. Isbell said in an interview with an English paper recently, "this is just as I have always imagined England." Colonel Isbell is assistant to General Johnson, chief of the Third Air Force in England.

Letters to her mother could be termed "Kentuckiana in England" or "They are jolly good fellows," but whatever, follow the Isbells on their magic carpet in excerpts from a recent letter: Our luncheon with Lord and

TVA Big Political Issue As Campaign Starts In Earnest

Gas Committee to Make Investigation of Nearby Units

According to Ward Johnson, the committee appointed by the City Council at the last meeting of the group to investigate the possibilities of natural gas for the city will leave soon on a junket to view first hand the operation of natural gas units operating in this vicinity.

Johnson indicated that the city was agreeable to securing this utility for the city consumers, and that the trip would be to investigate both the franchise system, and the out-right ownership system.

Other members of the committee are Mansfield Martin and G. B. Butterworth.

PUTNAM STATEMENT

"After due consideration and much thought I have decided to withdraw the notification and declaration for office of Mayor of the City of Fulton, Kentucky, subject to the action of the democratic primary.

"Many things have entered into this decision, and it has not been done on the spur of the moment. It is my sincere belief that this action will be to the best advantage of the city, and I pledge my sincere efforts to back the city administration to the very best of my ability at all times.

"I wish to convey my appreciation to all of my friends and backers, and hope that I may be of service to the community at any future date."

seek the office of mayor. (The News indicated in a story last week, that Mr. Atkins would announce for mayor.)

Further developments have also appeared on the horizon of the City Council, when a veterans' organization inspired slate was presented with six popular veterans announcing their intention to run for berths on the City Council Limited. They are: Al T. Owens, Joe Treas, Russell Pitchford, Charles Robert Ben-

No Foundation To Rumor Regarding Passes and Politics

There is no foundation to the rumor that an employee of the Illinois Central Railroad cannot hold public office because of passing privileges, according to legal authorities consulted on the matter. It was revealed that there is a Kentucky Statute which says that within the meaning of Section 197, certain pass-holders of a railroad cannot ride intra-state on a pass while holding certain public offices.

On being interviewed with reference to the ruling and rumor, Mrs. Alice Clark Coleman, an employee of the railroad and a candidate for City Council said: "If I am elected I shall ask the railroad to rescind my pass-riding privileges within the State if they in any way affect the legality of my position on the City Council."

Other railroad employees seeking public office could not be reached for comment.

CHARLENE MARTIN RESIGNS

Miss Charlene Martin, teacher of commercial subjects at Fulton High School for the past three years, has resigned to accept a position in Jefferson County schools.

The resignation of the popular teacher now makes a total of five vacancies existing at the school.

There's no getting around it. The body politic has more fans than the body beautiful these days, and there's certainly no doubt but that it has replaced baseball as the great Fulton pastime. Since last week the buzzing of the bees has been as nothing compared to the buzzing of local political factions to get "their men" on a sure win ticket.

Undercurrent of all the political conversation has been the oft-attempted and much-discussed matter of Tennessee Valley Authority power for the city. It has been a far more important item to the prospective candidate to find a "stand" on TVA than it has been for him, or her, to give a correct age and party affiliation on his application for city office.

Latest development in the potpourri of local politics is the rescinding of his application to seek the office of mayor by Dr. R. V. Putnam, and the eleventh-hour announcement of popular Smith Atkins, that he would

Those who submitted their qualification papers early last week are: Don Hill, general contractor, who is now a member of the Council; Paul Boyd, manager of the Airline Gas Company; Charles Gregory, representative of the Prudential Life Insurance Company; Mansfield Martin, also at present a member of the Council and co-owner of the City Electric and Fire Company, G.B. Butterworth, ticket agent for the I.C. and a member of the present council and Alice Clark Coleman, clerk to the general foreman of the Illinois Central and the only woman ever to seek such a city post.

Had a plan by several local businessmen gone through, an entire council of avowed TVA proponents would have been proposed to the city voters. Although the city possesses a goodly number of alleged rabid enthusiasts for TVA power for Fulton, only three of the group could be induced to run on such a ticket. Failing to secure the need six to run, the slate was abandoned.

Still "on the table" is the Mayor's list of appointments to form a power base. The present City Council voted last fall to begin negotiations to secure the government power for the city. First step in making negotiations was to appoint a Mayor's power board, which would have complete authority in making arrangements to bring TVA to the city. Presented to the City Council was a group of five names which needed ratification of that body. On motion of one of the councilmen the nominations were tabled and no further action has been taken on that issue.

Equally avid is the discussion in some circles as to what is meant by TVA for Fulton. Is the plan to have the city operate its own municipal power plant and buy current from Tennessee Valley Authority or to have TVA operate the city's power system? Or is TVA a frame of mind or a real desire?

Whatever the issue, this year's local political campaign with be charged with high voltage energy, "probably enough to generate any power plant for a mighty-long time to come. But whatever the views, the thing is to get out and vote for the issue you believe in.

The Other Fellow's Nose

By Arthur Garfield Hays

Distinguished lawyer, champion of civil liberties

"I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."—Voltaire.

Many people do not believe in free speech; they believe in "free speech but—" Yet our belief has no meaning unless we are tolerant of utterances we loathe as well as those we approve.

Is there a line to be drawn anywhere when it comes to expression of opinion? Of course there is, but we must define it carefully. The line should be drawn at the point where words contribute directly to violation of law or to violence. In short, my right to swing my arm ends where the other fellow's nose begins.

Too often, we are inclined to do something to suppress opinions just because we do not like them, whether they be Communist or Fascist doctrine, or anti-Negro, anti-Catholic, anti-Semitic publications and speech. The purpose of such suppression may be all right, but the philosophy is bad. In order to fulfill an immediate end, we are likely to forget the underlying principle that every human being has an inalienable right to express himself—whether we agree with him or not.

The important point is this: Free speech works; it works better in our country than any form of censorship or suppression. We must cherish it carefully. For as long as everyone has the right to speak, the truth is bound to emerge.

The meaning of our Constitution was never better phrased than in the American colloquialism: "Let 'em talk. This is a free country, isn't it?" It takes faith in this principle to be a good America.

Dairy Farming

"The Kentucky farmer who wants to put his land to most productive use—who wants assurance of a consistently favorable farm products income—or who wants to enhance the value of his farming operation for future sale or benefit to his heirs—can best accomplish these purposes by making a sound dairy program a proportionate part of his time and dollar investment."

This was the central thought of a recent radio address made by Ben Allen Thomas, President of the American Dairy Association of Kentucky, in behalf of June Dairy Month activities in Kentucky.

In support of his "Best Investment" message, Thomas listed eight main factors of the Kentucky milk production situation that operate in three main categories to the great advantage of the Kentucky dairy farmer: (1) The physical qualifications of Kentucky land and climate, for economical herd operation; (2) The market price advantages deriving from Kentucky's own consumption level, geographic location, and the local availabilities of manufacturing facilities for processing and converting fluid milk; (3) The production efficiency advantages available to the dairy herd operator through locally available, high quality dairy animals, dairy equipment, and feedstuffs.

Recession Psychology

We have noted, during the past few months, little news stories here and there about "indications" looking toward a depression, or recession. We have even heard it talked thus on the streets of Fulton.

Yet we have looked around us and found general business conditions to be in quite a healthy state, and no apparent sign of such a thing in the offing here at all. In farm areas such as ours, bank deposits and bond holdings have been reported as substantial, and farmers in general, in quite a healthy condition. We wonder just why some folks want to look at the gloomy side of the picture and try to spread such thought, when the net result of it, should the thing spread, be just what they are talking.

There are a number of industrial areas which are reporting wide-spread unemployment and difficult times, but why spread such gloom in a healthy, happy area such as ours?

How well we remember the deep depression days, when the opposite kind of psychology was used to "Keep Smiling" . . . "Every Day in Every Way, things are getting better and better" ideas. Back in those days, when business had gone to pot, the merchant would still greet his lone customer of the morning with a smile, to cheer her up and make her feel like buying more. It was good psychology.

If you want to close a buyer's pocketbook, there's no quicker way than to tell her that a recession is around the corner. Not only is it bad psychology, but in this area, at least, we can't see any truth in it at all.

Dear Paul:

I have just received the resignation of Miss Charlene Martin as teacher of commerce in Fulton High School. She has accepted a teaching position in Jefferson County at twice the salary she drew in Fulton. She gets more money for teaching 9 months than the Supt. of Fulton City Schools draws for 12 months. This brings the vacancies to 5 with one more expected.

STRICTLY BUSINESS

by McFeatters

"We'd better notify the utilities to shut off our light and heat!"

FOOTNOTES

By Alice and Me

Golf has been written from a woman's view, a man's view, an expert's view and even a bird's eye view. It has been analyzed, scrutinized, scandalized and sometimes eulogized. It has been cussed, discussed and repulsed.

But rarely has a typewriter crawled onto the green and reported the meanderings of the golfer from a caddy's standpoint. The little fellow who follows alongside, or shortly behind the player gave his own views of the game to a News reporter as they waited for the ladies to return from lunch on Tuesday.

For instance lady golfers are the best players, they said. The golf bags are lighter and their game is more leisurely. Their conversation is more varied and their general attitude is more cheerful. Their fairway conversation concerns anything from the best soap powders for wood-work to the boy they had a date with last night. (If unmarried, of course.) Ladies rarely ever maintain the silence that men do in playing golf, and hardly ever do the "matching" for hole shots.

A good example of their views of the golfer concerns their qualifications for being a caddy. When asked the attributes for being a good caddy, they almost simultaneously answered, muscle and brains. "Brains" the reporter asked, "and way." "Listen lady, when you follow some of the folks around and listen to their conversation, which goes on pretty fast sometimes, and they tell you to hand them a club, without ever stopping what they're saying, you GOT to have brains to figure out what club they want."

On the other hand golfing is a profitable business, though spotty at times. For instance if a man has a good game, he pays over and above the regular fee. If it's bad, he begrudges even the regular stipend. Harry McDaniels made $5.50 in one day, caddying four rounds for Byron Blagg and Boots Rodgers. Average take for one day is about two dollars. Incidentally they call Harry, the "gambling fool." He will take as many bets as Lloyd's of London.

The highest score they've ever seen for nine holes is 144. The highest score for one hole, 30 strokes. Favorite player of Mac Fields, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fields is Mrs. Buren Rodgers, who won the four-way tournament on Tuesday. Most admired is Warren Johnson, whose hole-in-one has them still gasping.

Funny incident department: One youngster reported caddying for a lady who found a fine new ball in one of the hazards. She gaily pulled the ball out of a mud-hole and threw it on the fairway, proud indeed of her "find." But alas, she came on the fairway and looked for more than an hour for the ball she "found," only to find that it was really lost. "Is that sad," we asked. "Sure it is, when you consider that balls are 95 cent each."

Then there are the extra poor players, who are unwelcome employers to some of the youngsters. "We can spot them a mile," they say. "They come at you with, 'isn't he a darling boy, will you caddy for me.' What can a fellow do, things are tough everywhere."

Regulars at the Country Club are: Charles Lee Estes, Bobby Gossum, Rice Owens, David Ward Holland, Paul Argo, Don Brown, Jamie Barnes, James Long, Kenneth Everett, Virgil Covington, Charles Stoker, Mac Fields, Larry Cavender and Harry McDaniels.

Don't shoot the caddy for this expose. He's really a nice little fellow with a horrifying motto: Play here if it kills us, we need the money.

A German's Reaction

"It looks to me like you're heading where we've just been," said a German farm leader in response to a question of what he thought of proposals to use production payment subsidies for farm commodities in lieu of fair prices in the market places.

After 30 days in the United States, touring farming regions, talking with farmers, organization leaders and federal administrators of various aspects of agriculture, a German agricultural leader made that revealing statement to J. C. Lynn of the American Farm Bureau Federation's legislative staff in Washington.

Speaking was Dr. Hens Pody, Deputy Minister of Food, Agriculture and Forestry, for Western Germany, the position he has held since the war's end. Dr. Pody is in America to spend sixty days studying the U.S. agricultural program so that he may be guided or aided in developing a sound agricultural program for Western Germany under its new constitution. His trip is being sponsored jointly by the U. S. Army and the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations.

Dr. Pody has conferred frequently with AFBF's Mr. Lynn because of the latter's familiarity with German agricultural problems. For almost three years Mr. Lynn was Assistant Director of the Food, Agriculture and Forestry Division of the Military Government in Germany.

His views after a month in America were written by Dr. Pody to Mr. Lynn, and it is plain that he's not finding things as he expected to find them.

Recalls Germany's Experience

Dr. Pody began his letter by tracing the experiences of agriculture in Germany from 1933 to 1945 with emphasis on the system of subsidies and controls developed by the Nazis. He explained how impractical it was to continue these subsidies and programs after the war's end.

He said that farm subsidies in Germany began with a system aimed at developing oil-seed cultivation to make Germany self-sufficient in edible and non-edible oils. This was done at first by a simple subsidy payment which was finally increased to about 600 percent of the former price. The program succeeded in increasing oil-seed production in western Germany by about 300 percent.

Soon, however, demands by other crops led to extension of subsidies and by the end of the war there was some form of subsidy on every agricultural commodity grown in Germany. At this stage the system assumed the character of general aid for agriculture. Dr. Pody wrote that the over-all system of price supports grew to 1.9 billion Reichmarks by 1945—nearly 20 percent of the total value of marketed farm products.

"The post-war State budget could not bear this heavy burden, and naturally all subsidies had to give way to the rebuilding of fair and genuine prices for all foodstuffs," he said. Neither farmers nor consumers desired to pay further obedience to the Reich's Food Estates Offices, their so-called self-governing societies and the thousands of laws and regulations they had issued during 12 years.

"The end was the dissolution of the Food Estates Offices by law of the new German Economic Council in 1948. We in Germany abandoned the way of administrative control and the new topic of our economic development is free enterprise."

Disappointed in U. S.

"I thought that free enterprise on the whole line of economic life would be the most significant tendency to be met on my trip through the United States," Dr. Pody's letter continued. "I was wondering how much I could learn here for my own task in Germany."

"May I tell you that already I feel some disappointment in this direction."

"What you do and what you plan means more administration and less free enterprise. I admit that your administration (of farm program) is based on and nourished by free democratic ideals and feelings. But the trend of your development is in favor of an administration which gives the rule and the not-to-be-forgotten forms and applications applied by a tight and complicated network of offices spread over the whole country."

"From one of your best-informed Congressmen I heard frankly-spoken words about confusion and lack of collaboration between these offices and the different branches of agricultural administration.

"I have had some experience in administration and some knowledge of agriculture. I don't know too much about your American specifications of both, but I hope I may be allowed to give you this open-minded report about my first impressions."

"My thoughts are based on the opinion that agriculture naturally grows best in the Lord's free and open air and that artificial work of administration, however founded in good-will to support and to conserve, must have its limits."

Farmers From Denmark

Sixteen robust and eager young farmers from Denmark are getting settled for a year's stay on Wisconsin and Iowa farms where they have been placed by the two State Farm Bureaus and the American Farm Bureau Federation. The boys, whose stay in the United States is sponsored by the AFBF, arrived in America June 4, spent a couple of days sight-seeing in Washington then headed westward for their new jobs.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday June 26.

The Golden Text is: "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price." (Isa. 55:1).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Another parable spake he unto them: The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened." (Matt. 13:33).

Man's chief merit consists in resisting the impulses of his nature.—Samuel Johnson.

ONE OF KENTUCKY'S TRADITIONS

Expert Marksmanship

The world over, Kentuckians are famous for their skill with rifles. From Daniel Boone's time to the present day, Kentuckians have been noted for sharpshooting—whether the target be a bull's eye on the rifle range, a squirrel, a bear, or even an enemy soldier during war. Expert marksmanship is a Kentucky tradition.

Yes, and beer is a tradition in Kentucky, too!

Like expert marksmanship, BEER BELONGS IN KENTUCKY. Almost since the days when the first long riflemen arrived at old Fort Harrod, Kentuckians have enjoyed beer, the beverage of moderation.

great champagne evening. Jim knows his way around London remarkably well and Sunday took us "en famille" to Buckingham Palace, Westminster, St. Paul's Piccadilly, The Mall, Hyde Park, the Green Park, down Birdcage Walk and Reed's eyes were like saucers especially over the beautiful guardsmen in bearskin cap pacing in front of the palace.

On June 9, the King's official birthday, Jim had a ticket to see the trooping of the colour. He had to stand for two and one-half hours and while I was bitter over not having a ticket I decided it was better to see it on Winnie's television. It was the first time in ten years they'd had it and it is the most beautiful pageant in the world today. The music makes shivers run down one's spine and the beautiful medieval pomp is unbelievable. I'm so glad nothing has happened to it in these years. No wonder the English are the most closely knit people on earth.

Bill and Virginia and Sally and her friend, Jean McWilliams are here at the Savoy. Sally and friend flew over and Bill and Virginia arrived by boat on the 8th. We went in for dinner and dancing with them at the Savoy on Saturday very dressed and had a wonderful time. They're coming to Foystede for lunch Thursday, before the Gold Cup race at Ascot. Bill had to go down to Saville Row to buy a top hat as they're going to sit in the Royal Enclosure.

On the 17th we're invited to a Hunt Club Ball (men in hunting pink) and on the 23rd we have tickets for a play in London with the Kieffers.

The Naylor's are leaving, Sally and Virginia that is, for the Continent so I won't see them again after Thursday. I'm having Reed stay out of school that day as Sally is dying to see her.

I nearly forgot to tell you. With Virginia and Bill is some Gulf Oil Company official or other, a tall slim gray-headed Texan from Victoria and Saturday night when I was dancing with him he said "When you were a little girl growing up in Kentucky, did you ever think you'd be dancing at the Savoy in London?" And I think that sums up everything very neatly and in a lovely way, don't you?

Love and Kisses
VIRGINIA
(Ed's note: It certainly does, Virginia.)

None so little enjoy themselves and are such burdens to themselves as those who have nothing to do. Only the active have the true relish of life.—Jay.

votional from the Proverbs. The secretary's and treasurer's report were given by Mrs. Harold Strange.

Eight new members were welcomed to the club. They were Mrs. J. U. McKendree, Mrs. Ardel Sams, Mrs. Tillman Adams, Mrs. Clint Reeds, Mrs. F. H. Riddle, Mrs. Clifton Hamlett, Mrs. J. E. McNatt and Mrs. Hinkle.

A report was given by the nominating committee and new officers elected were: Mrs. Charles Cannon, president; Mrs. J. H. Lawrence, vice-president; Mrs. Harold Strange, secretary and Mrs. Oliver Kash, treasurer.

It was voted for those who have trays and stools to make to meet Tuesday, June 28 and Wednesday, June 29 at 1 o'clock at the South Fulton gymnasium to finish their work.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served cold drinks and cookies.

Roundhouse Round-Up

By Alice Coleman

June is popularly regarded as a favorite wedding month, when young people assume the traditional vows "for better or (or worse)." Hence June is likewise a good month for the celebration of the birth of a child.

The golden anniversary this year comes to fifty workers who started with the Illinois Central not later than 1899. This is the largest yearly class since the custom was established in 1936. Up to and including this year, such awards have been made to 439 Illinois Central workers, out of this record 111 of these men are still on the job, 173 have retired and 155 have died. It has well been said that when a man devotes his life to an industry he has truly paid that industry the greatest compliment possible. Half a century is a long life's work. The railroad is honored by devotion of this nature and is delighted in turn to honor the men who have been with it for more than half its nearly century long career. The men from Fulton that have just returned from the big dinner in Chicago and received their gold passes are: Jake Huddleston, engineer, Earnest Bell, engine foreman and C. R. Collins, freight agent.

Misses Tessie and Lula Anderson and C. H. Anderson all of Jackson, Tenn., have returned to their home after a visit with Mrs. W. R. McKenzie and family on Eddings street.

We welcome Billy Joe Gardiner and Clifford Travis Jr., into the Illinois Central family.

The Illinois Central Service Club will meet next Friday night for their regular monthly meeting. A very interesting program has been planned. The meeting will start at 6:30 p.m. so as to enable anyone to get out in time for the ball game, etc. We urge all members to be present for this meeting.

Tip about that trip..

For fun-on-the-run, as you've already discovered, there's no travel mate like that Buick of yours—especially if it's really in the pink.

So while you're readying yourself for vacation tours, how about doing the same for your car—with a little of that special Buick care that does so much to make trips top-notch? For instance—

Got plenty of pep? Our engine tune-up is just the ticket to bring back flashing, new-car liveliness on hills and straight-aways.

Can you "stop on a dime"? The answer's yes—when our experts get through truing up worn drums, mounting new linings to replace old worn ones.

How's your view? It'll be good, night and day, when you let our experts check your lights, windshield wipers, and windows.

Want a good steer? That's just what you've got, after our front-end experts get through adjusting your steering mechanism to give it new-car lightness.

Chassis sassy?

Does it ride roughly—squeal and squeak at you?

Drive in—we'll "shoot the works" with our grease guns and oilcans to take the noise and stiffness out of your ride—give you easier steering.

And a Buick-trained mechanic will give your car a conscientious trouble-preventing inspection as well—without charge!

In short, start your trip in our shop and you'll find it free of car worries all the way. Drop in—see our facilities—talk to our experts—and see for yourself it's the best insurance of a good time that you can buy.

"What a crazy way to run a business," they tell us. Here you up and introduce a new line of refrigerators and ranges to Fulton one week, and the next week you cut price and close 'em out. Right in the season when paints, lawn furniture and garden tools are selling as fast as can be, you slash their prices, too. You keep on buying new phonograph records and selling them barely above cost."

By Ewing Galloway

If I were asked to point out the weakest spot in Kentucky agriculture, the state's largest industry, I'd make a forefinger print on animal husbandry. If asked the same question most of my readers would have said a-buse of the soil. That's because in the last dozen years the Federal Government has spent around five billion dollars to promote soil restoration, conservation, and because practically every agency, public or private, interested in better farming has been talking better dirt. Better breeding and better care of livestock seems to have received much less attention than it deserved.

A Henderson county farmer and his sharecropper lost 45 fine hogs almost heavy enough to go to market. I asked the landowner how it happened.

"Cholera," I guess.

"Do you mean to say you didn't vaccinate your hogs for cholera?"

"We didn't think there was any danger. Never had vaccinated before. Never had a hog die of it in about thirty years."

Recently another farmer in our county bought $700 worth of stock hogs and before they had been on his place half a day cholera broke out among them. When one of his neighbors reported the incident to me more than half of the hogs had already died.

"Why didn't the man vaccinate the drove as soon as the first hog showed symptoms of cholera," I inquired.

"He figured it wouldn't do any good to vaccinate now—that all the hogs would die anyway and calling a veterinarian would be a waste of money."

That such things should happen in this era of enlightenment—well, is hard to believe. Yet there are tens of thousands of Kentucky farmers who risk the loss of valuable hogs to save the cost of virus and serum.

Eleven years ago I bought about 100 shoats from Tennessee. I was very green in the hog business, otherwise I wouldn't have bought southern stock hogs. And, wherever my stocker came from, I should have vaccinated them at the unloading chute pen. As you have guessed already, I bought cholera with my shoats. But only one died. The rest were vaccinated as quickly as possible, and none got seriously ill.

I am at the large Evansville yards, which serve West Kentucky as well as southeast Illinois and southwest Indiana, about sixty times a year, and I'd say seventy per cent of the cattle sold there are either scrub stock or have received woefully poor attention. Kentucky cattle are neither better nor worse than those from the other two states.

The farmers who take them to market look like average men. If you saw them as often as I do you'd wonder why they do so bad a job raising cattle.

The other day I asked a veterinarian commission salesman how come. We had been watching truckload after truckload of scrubs pass down the main alley. He answered with a half-grin and a headshake.

The better class of Kentucky livestock raisers do a splendid job, and their number is increasing, but not fast enough.

The changing glow and full effulgence of God's infinite ideas, images, mark the periods of progress.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Write Patricia Latane to Solve Your Problems

Dear Miss Latane:

I am 19 years old and am in love with a boy but I can't go anywhere with him and we only get to see each other one or two nights a week as he is married and has a little girl 3 years old. Please tell me what to do, J. B.

My advice to you is to look for another friend and find one that is single and forget this married man. You aren't in love with him, it is more of a habit sitting around waiting for him.

Dear Miss Latane:

I am a boy 16 years old and I am in love with a girl and have been for three years. I've talked to her all this time but I never did have but one date with her. Now she is married and what I want to know is, do you think they will live together? —J.J.

Yes, they will live together for awhile until the child is born then they will quit. You will find someone else to fall in love with. She is looking for money and she thought she had married into money when she married this boy but as the saying goes "she was fooled again."

Dear Miss Latane:

I am a woman 62 years old and I have an old friend whom I have known for years coming to see me. What do you think about it? I have two children, a boy and a girl, and both of them are grown and working but still at home. E.W.

Dear E. W.:

I don't see a thing wrong in it if you enjoy his company and he enjoys being with you. I think that's all that matters but I do see wedding bells in the air and they aren't for your daughter or son either.

Dear Miss Latane:

Will I find my pocket book? J. E. P.

Dear J. E. P. No, you won't find your pocket book. It is gone for good. The girl you were talking with got your purse.

Dear Miss Latane:

My husband and I don't want my people to know about the things he does and everytime he gets drunk they find it out. What can I do?

Dear E. P.:

Tell him to stop getting drunk.

That is the only way to keep them from finding it out.

Dear Miss Pat:

I am going to have a child and I am not married. Please advise. J. R.

Dear J. R.:

The thing for you to do is to sit down and tell your mother. She will help you. The best thing for you to do is to go away to some relatives and stay until it's over or go to some home. Your mother will know best.

How to tune a piano!

THE PIANO's out of tune. So we'll chop it up. Then we'll get a tin horn instead.

Sure, these men are crazy.

But they're using the same kind of thinking a lot of people have been using on the American economic system lately.

Our American way isn't perfect. We still have our ups and downs of prices and jobs. We'll have to change that. But even so, our system works a lot better than the second-rate substitutes being peddled by some countries we could mention.

It works better because of a few simple things. We are more inventive, and we know how to use machine power to produce more goods at lower cost. We have more skilled workers than any other country. And we Americans save—and our savings go into new tools, new plants, new and better machines.

Because of this, we produce more every working hour . . . and can buy more goods with an hour's work than any other people in the world.

We can make the system work even better, too: by all of us working together to turn out more for every hour we work—through better machines and methods, more power, greater skills, and by sharing the benefits through higher wages, lower prices, shorter hours.

It's a good system. It can be made better. And even now it beats anything that any other country in the world has to offer.

So—let's tune it up, not chop it down.
